GOVERNMENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF SINGAPORE

SINGAPORE: RECENT CHANGES IN TAX COOPERATION FRAMEWORK IN COMPLIANCE WITH GLOBAL STANDARDS

Ministry of Finance
Government of the Republic of Singapore

January 2010

Singapore is a unique country, not bestowed with the usual conditions for sovereignty. As a small city-state with no natural resources whatsoever, it has taken its people from Third World to First by investing in education and skills and making itself relevant to the world as a hub for knowledge-based activities.

The Government of the Republic of Singapore (the "Singapore Government") has prepared this summary for the purpose of describing generally its economy and the recent changes in its international tax cooperation framework. The Singapore Government welcomes the opportunity to address these items with U.S. policymakers to ensure that U.S. legislative and other decisions are made on the basis of accurate and timely information.

Singapore's Economy

1. Singapore has a well-diversified economy. Its main economic contributor is manufacturing (23% of GDP), complemented with strong logistics and financial services sectors. It has earned its place as a leading business and financial hub in Asia with sound fiscal and monetary policies, a rigorous and well-regarded regime of financial regulation, strong rule of law, and adherence to international standards. Singapore's prudent fiscal policies have allowed it to enable a competitive tax regime aimed at encouraging enterprises large and small.

Cooperation in International Tax Matters

2. In keeping with Singapore's role as a responsible tax jurisdiction, the Singapore Government endorsed in March 2009 the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (“OECD”) Standard for the exchange of information upon request for tax purposes through bilateral tax treaties. Singapore’s move followed closely the endorsement by the United Nations Committee of Experts on International Cooperation in Tax Matters in October 2008, signifying the acceptance of the OECD Standard by both developed and developing countries. Since then, as of 8 January 2009, Singapore has substantially implemented this new internationally agreed Standard for exchange of information by reaching agreement with 22 jurisdictions and formally signing with 17 of these to incorporate the Standard in bilateral comprehensive tax treaties.¹ Singapore will continue to renegotiate more such tax treaties to incorporate the Standard and update treaty terms.

3. Our Parliament has approved legislative changes to give effect to the Standard. These changes will enable the Singapore Government to exchange information, including information held by third parties such as banks and other financial institutions, to assist other countries in enforcing their own tax laws.

4. Singapore intends to play an active role at the Global Forum on Transparency and Exchange of Information. The Global Forum brings together jurisdictions, both OECD and non-OECD, that have made commitments to the Standard, and has been tasked by G20 to track jurisdictions’ implementation of the Standard through a peer review process. Singapore has been appointed as a member of the Steering Group and a Vice Chair of the Peer Review Group at the Global Forum.

5. With well-established ties with the United States in fields ranging from the economy to education and defense, Singapore is keen to strengthen our bilateral relationship further with a comprehensive tax treaty. This will promote trade, investment and cooperation for tax purposes between both countries.
